Crossroads ISSN: 2190-8796

Published by OSTASIEN Verlag

The journal Crossroads-Studies on the History of Exchange Relations in the East Asian World is designed as an international forum for contributions related to the history of exchange relations in the East Asian world and beyond, that means, including regions, cultures, and countries worldwide that have or had relations with East Asia. The focus of contributions lies on both continental (overland) and maritime (overseas) exchanges and interaction, that means, commercial and technological exchanges, science and knowledge transfer, exchange of ideas, religions and ideological strains, and the movement of people (including migration) and animals. Contributions in the fields of the transfer of science and technologies, cultural aspects in their widest interpretation, religions, commodity and product exchange, trade, as well as migration and the organization of functioning networks are especially welcome.

Please note:

– Authors are requested to enclose, at the time of submission, a half page abstract of their article, contact and most essential biographical information.

– To be able to upload your contribution, you will first have to register in our OJS (Open Journal Systems). Registration can be done at the following link:
